

MS. AVNIKA PARMAR

Qualification: M.Sc. Nursing (Obstetrics & Gynecology); B.Sc. Nursing

Designation: Tutor

Description: Ms. Avnika Parmar is a dedicated Nursing Tutor specializing in Obstetrics and Gynecological Nursing, with a strong commitment to clinical excellence and the academic development of future nursing professionals. She is currently serving at the Institute of Nursing Sciences and Shri G. H. Patel School of Nursing, Karamsad, where she effectively balances theoretical instruction with hands-on clinical mentoring.

She completed her B.Sc. Nursing from Shri G. H. Patel College of Nursing during the period 2017–2021. To further strengthen her academic and clinical expertise, she pursued an M.Sc. in Nursing with a specialization in Obstetrics and Gynecological Nursing from Charotar University of Science and Technology (CHARUSAT), Changa. As part of her postgraduate training, she gained advanced clinical exposure through a specialized outbound training posting at Medanta Hospital and SGT Hospital, Haryana (National Reference Simulation Centre).

Prior to her current appointment, she acquired valuable bedside nursing experience at Iris Hospital, Anand, and served for 10 months as a Nursing Tutor at Dinsha Patel College of Nursing, Nadiad. These experiences have enhanced her ability to guide students effectively during clinical postings, ensuring the integration of theoretical knowledge with quality patient care.

Beyond her teaching responsibilities, she actively contributes to departmental and institutional committees and activities. She has presented her research work at a national conference held in Changa and regularly participates in state- and national-level workshops. Her continued engagement in academic and professional development reflects her dedication to advancing nursing science and improving maternal health outcomes.